Orientation Program

SPPU Gives us the permission to organized the orientation lecture ceriseof Avishakar 2016. The ARC of our college and its committees organise. This orientation program in our college on 29th sept 2016. In this program the students from different such as arts, science, commeres, Engineering, Pharmacy etc were participated. In this program the lecture of Dr. NS Umarani, Principal, Aabasaheb Garware college, Mr. PV Sathe and Dr. Sanjay Gaikwad were organize. In this lecture the information about how to select the reachers project. How to do and How to present their work was discussed. The Avishakar is reachers is reachers competition for the student.

Cooprative learning method (Teaching method)

This method is implemented from last three years in the college for third year Bsc class as a classroom activity. This method gives positive interdependence, individual accountability, interaction, involvement, participation, alertness, respect etc. in every student. It helps to develop their skills like listening, understanding, analyzing, implementation etc. This method worked in three principals such as THINK-PAIR-SHARE. This allows the student to participate. In this method I make different groups of the students and they sit accordingly in the classroom. I explain the concept on the board, then every groups has supplied the related question and the every group allowed for discussing. In this discussion, I help and take part to motivate the every student of the group, that he/she should take part in discussion. It required 10 minutes for discussion. Then the every group selects a leader and writes the raised point on a paper. Then the leader of each group explains all points in front of whole class with the help of board. Then other group members ask the related question and the presenter group shall give the answer. The other group gets the marks for their question. If the presenter leader. or This group gives the correct answer then it's OK. If not, then will give the answer. In this way, the students will make different variety of questions by applying his knowledge, which are more creative. In this method every student involved in the learning process i.e active participation. make a good listener, respect to all over student and teacher.

The innovation different from conventional teaching.

the conventional teaching method is lecturing method i.e chalk and talk method, which is one way method. every student from the class is listens, but not their active participation when the teacher asks the question, some of the student gives the answer. But in the cooperative learning method every student participated continuously in discussion by thinking, pairing and sharing. The student take part in the discussion every body gives respect to others. Each student involved in the concept. Every student develops creative ability to ask the question as well as to give the answer.

The impact of the teaching innovation

Every student involved in learning process. Increase the effective listening ability, deep understanding develop communication skill, engaged in interactive learning etc. The involvement of student results in improvement of in the Interest develops of the subject be interested. The result of the class is improved.

BJS Education work

Education is the only key factor that can bring in social transformation. BJS has worked in education from three perspectives, Contributing with a set of intervention for students learning, improving quality and providing intervention programs to educational institutions and contributing to social cause through these educational institutions. BJS began working with a strong focus on education initiatives with all these perspectives in the first decade of 21st century after its core work in disaster response and social initiatives. During and after disaster response having created a niche in rehabilitating disaster affected children for their education since 1993 and having established a permanent Wagholi Educational Rehabilitation Center (WERC), BJS decided to work on school Education for improving Quality of education. With this idea, Mr. Shantilal Muttha initiated a basket of programme called EDUQIP (Educational Quality Improvement Programme) addressing the need of different stakeholders like students, teachers, Principals, Governing bodies and authorities.

In 2003, Shri. Shantilal Muttha launched a new initiative of BJS-federation of Jain Educational Institutions (FJEI) to unite thousands of Jain educational institutions under one umbrella for collective strength, with the vision to collectively contribute to Nation Building and with the objective to collectively strive for transforming these charity institutions to quality institutions. Based on the experience of long years between 1985-2015 and all education related work done through BJS and FJEI, having the belief and complete conviction to do a fundamental contribution to the domain of education and to bring in revolutionary changes in school education with the objective to transform the school educational system of India, Shri Shantilal Muttha founded a not for profit organization Shantilal Muttha Foundation (SMF) in 2015. SMF focuses on up scaling BJS educational initiatives across the country especially for integrating them in the government system. Our college Bharatiya Jain Sanghatana's Arts, Science & Commerce College is one of them.
